

Harvard Business School

REVIEWED BY JULIA KAGEN | Updated Jan 22, 2018

What is Harvard Business School

Harvard Business School is one of the top U.S. business schools. It is located at Harvard University in Boston, Massachusetts, where it functions as Harvard's graduate school of business. It was founded in 1908 and is widely considered to be one of the world's best graduate business schools. The school also owns Harvard Business School Publishing Corporation, which publishes numerous business books, business cases and the Harvard Business Review.

BREAKING DOWN Harvard Business School

Harvard Business School is one of the most highly competitive graduate business schools in the country. The Harvard Business School offers a full-time MBA program, doctoral programs and numerous executive education programs. The school also offers joint degree programs with other Harvard schools, including the John F. Kennedy School of Government and Harvard Law School. In 2016, 9,543 people applied for the school's MBA program, of which 12% were admitted, while in 2014, 4% of the 792 people who applied for the school's doctoral program were admitted. The total enrollment was approximately 1,870 students, and the average cost for a full year of tuition was about $61,000.

As of 2016, Harvard Business School's faculty consists of 234 full-time equivalent positions, and its total staff numbers number more than 1,400. The school is often cited as a pioneer in